Winter Starts Early

A drizzling rain fell the greater part of Saturday which turned to snow during the night and Sunday morning found the ground covered to a depth of three inches. Sunday night about ten o'clock another snow storm, accompanied by a strong wind swept down from the west and continued throughout the night, adding several inches of snow to that which had previously fallen. The Sunday night snow drifted badly and drifts two feet deep were in evidence, especially in the business section of town.

The worst of the storm seems to have been between North Platte and Ogalalla, and traffic on the Union Pacific was held up for ten hours by drifts between O'Fallon and Brule, to which section a snow plow had been sent. No. 15 from the east was held here until ten o'clock yesterday forenoon, and No. 12 from the west was seven hours late in reaching this terminal. Train No. 6 due here at 9:00 yesterday morning was held at Sidney and did not reach here till late yesterday afternoon. But little snow fell east of Lexington and trains from the east yesterday morning reached this terminal about two hours late.

Yesterday forenoon the sun came out brightly and during the day the snow began to thaw.

Even though the coal miners return to work this week it is predicted that there will be a scarcity of coal for the next two months. Coal dealers in town recommend that in order that all are treated fairly a commission be appointed to inquire into the actual coal needs of each individual. Before the local stocks became exhausted, it was found that individuals who had enough on hand to last for sixty or ninety days were, in the face of the shortage, ordering more thus depriving those who were in actual need. In some instances, when the driver found that the party ordering the coal had a reasonable supply on hand, drove away without unloading it, thus saving it for those who had no stock ahead, to take care of just such instances, the dealers recommend the appointment of a commission should a scarcity exist.
